Artist Information

P for Pepsine is a lo-fi solo-orchestra based in Lucerne, Switzerland. Repetition is not one of Pepsine's strengths. But all the more the consistency of his own productions. Pepsine literally lives the DIY concept. The distinctive vocals, the typical songwriting and guitar playing as well as a certain nonchalance characterize the songs especially. And of course the combination of analogue instruments and digital gimmicks. With Pepsine you never know exactly what you'll get: catchy singer-songwriter pearls or rather dark, introverted, electronic songs that only reveal their full beauty after several runs. But a constancy remains: Pepsine always stages and celebrates a very special mood in his songs and thus delivers a special listening experience. His productions are mostly created in his home studio or in combination variations at different locations. And this is reflected in a certain intimacy in his songs which cannot be overheard. This is exactly how pop music with an individual character is created.

Single Information

With «Digging» P for Pepsine delivers his third single in 2020. Acoustic indie guitars meet driving electronic beats and shape together a huge sound firework! The song construction is held in place by gloomy strings hidden in the background. This is joined by the longing lyrics, which once again suspiciously underpins the mood of the song. The song as a whole is in the center of attention again. Exactly this was the concept of the upcoming album, which is supposed to be released at the end of the year: warm, melancholic but still multi-faceted pop without big detours. On the direct way to the listener. Thus Pepsine sets a clear contrast to the songs on his previous release «Sunsets EP» (2015).
