Artist Information

P for Pepsine is a lo-fi solo-orchestra based in Lucerne, Switzerland. Repetition is not one of Pepsine's strengths. But all the more the consistency of his own productions. Pepsine literally lives the DIY concept. The distinctive vocals, the typical songwriting and guitar playing as well as a certain nonchalance characterize the songs especially. And of course the combination of analogue instruments and digital gimmicks. With Pepsine you never know exactly what you'll get: catchy singer-songwriter pearls or rather dark, introverted, electronic songs that only reveal their full beauty after several runs. But a constancy remains: Pepsine always stages and celebrates a very special mood in his songs and thus delivers a special listening experience. His productions are mostly created in his home studio or in combination variations at different locations. And this is reflected in a certain intimacy in his songs which cannot be overheard. This is exactly how pop music with an individual character is created.

Single Information

«Open Water» is the first single after an almost 5 year musical break from P for Pepsine. Rarely before has a Pepsine song appeared in such a fleet-footed, carefree and fluid pop style. Pepsine delivers a chorus after a catchy verse, which immediately gets stuck in your ear canal. By the way, he brings the whole story to the point in about 3 minutes. The song as a whole is in the center of attention again. Exactly this was the concept of the upcoming EP, which is supposed to be released in autumn: warm, melancholic but still multi-faceted pop without big detours. On the direct way to the listener. Thus Pepsine sets a clear contrast to the songs on his predecessor «Sunsets EP» (2015).
